Issues having decided in arbitration include discipline, discharge, promotion and upgrading, layoff, recall bumping, posting, incentive rates or standards, job classification, overtime, holidays, and vacations, fringe benefits, discrimination, management rights, and arbitrability. Industries having served include aerospace, airline, automotive, bakery, beverage, brass and cooper, broadcasting, canning, chemicals, clerical, coal, communications, confectionery, construction and building, container, dairy products, distillery, power, glass, health care, iron, machinery, miscellaneous manufacturing, maritime, meat packing, products, retail stores, service industries, shop building and drydock, steel, stone, quarry, textile, transportation, trucking and storage, utilities, and warehousing. Public sector experience includes having served as arbitrator, mediator and factfinder in the resolution of both grievance and contract negotiations impasse disputes arising in the various fields of governmental service; particularly in the areas of police, fire, education, as well as state, county and municipal civil service.

From 1979 to 1983, I held the position of Labor Tribunal Administrator assigned to the Cincinnati Regional Office of the American Arbitration Association (AAA). There, I was responsible for the daily administration of the 700 to 800 labor arbitration and public sector factfinding cases annually filed with the Cincinnati AAA Office. My responsibilities also included the administration of seminars regarding labor arbitration education. This work entailed a broad exposure to a multitude of parties, covering a wide range of issues. From 1983 to 1985, I interned with Arbitrator Charles L. Mullin in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania in beginning my career as a labor arbitrator.

From September of 1997 until August of 1998, I was on leave from my labor arbitration/ADR practice to work as an American Bar Association, Central East European Law Initiative labor arbitration (ABA/CEELI) volunteer in the country of Belarus. There, I was responsible for the various ABA/CEELI, rule of law development programs being undertaken in conjunction with local Belarussian partners. The most notable of these was the start-up of a labor law development program. Subsequently, I have returned several times as to the continuation of this program and one concerning the Belarussian Chamber of Commerce, International Court of Arbitration. In addition, I have been involved with ABA/CEELI, ADR development programs in Bulgaria, Slovakia, Ukraine, and Romania. I have also participated in ADR development projects in Croatia and Georgia.
